Do you long to see the people around you grow in their faith? Do you want to be a part of helping them become more like Jesus? If so, then Counseling One Another: A Theology of Interpersonal Discipleship is the book for you.

This book is written for all Christians who want to grow in their ability to counsel others. Whether you're a pastor, a small group leader, a friend, or a family member, this book will provide you with the biblical and practical tools you need to help others in their spiritual journey.

Counseling One Another is divided into three parts:

1. Theology of Interpersonal Discipleship This section provides a biblical and theological framework for understanding the nature, purpose, and practice of interpersonal discipleship.

2. The Practice of Interpersonal Discipleship This section focuses on the practical aspects of interpersonal discipleship, including how to build relationships, listen attentively, and offer wise counsel.
3. Applications of Interpersonal Discipleship This section explores how interpersonal discipleship can be applied in a variety of settings, including the church, the workplace, and the family.

Counseling One Another is a comprehensive and practical guide to interpersonal discipleship. It is a must-read for anyone who wants to grow in their ability to help others in their spiritual journey.
